"Blue City" & Tangier Extension

March 25 — 28, 2027

Join us on an in-depth exploration of the wondrous Kingdom of Morocco, whose multi-cultural history and achievements span over two millennia, on an "insider's" program designed exclusively for FGCCT. The journey will naturally cover the Kingdom's best-known treasures, including its thousand-year-old cities surrounded by ramparts within which we find a hive of ageless activity, a myriad of scents and colors, and astounding architecture. But it will also offer insights into the fabric of life of Moroccan peoples and reach off-the-beaten-track sites of glorious history and breathtaking nature. Along the way we will discover the traditions of Berber tribesmen amid the pristine setting around North Africa's highest peak; hear from a university professor on Morocco's geopolitics; admire the world's last forest of giant cedars; enjoy private events, from a dinner reception to a wine tasting; and marvel at six exquisite gardens. Come on what should be one of the most enriching travel experiences of your life.

Itinerary

March 14: Sunday – Arrive in Marrakech (D)

Land in Marrakech for a transfer to the hotel. Remainder of day at leisure. Welcome cocktail followed by dinner of Marrakchi specialties at the hotel.

HOTEL: Riad Kniza, one of the highest-rated boutique hotels in the country, with excellent traditional cuisine, built in typical Moroccan style and located just inside the medina in the Doukkala residential neighborhood, a 10-min walk to the bazaars. Five nights.

March 15: Monday – Majorelle Garden and the Imperial City (B,L,D)

The day begins with a stroll in the exotic garden that French Orientalist Jacques Majorelle created in the 1920s, restored by Yves Saint-Laurent, who lived in Majorelle's former home. There we visit the exquisite Museum of Berber Arts. Then into the area from which Marrakech ruled over a vast kingdom under four dynasties. First, the Bahia ("Resplendent") Palace of a late 19th-Century vizier, a showcase of Moorish-Andalusian art, with its astounding ceilings in salons around verdant patios. Next, the Monde des Arts de la Parure, an Ali Baba's treasure trove of over 3,000 articles of jewelry, costumes and other personal ornaments collected from dozens of indigenous cultures in nearly every corner of the world. Enjoy a Lebanese lunch there and continue to the Saadian Dynasty's mausoleum, the last window left into the lavishness of their late 17th-Century art. Wind up with a stop by the 12th-Century Koutoubia mosque, the symbol of the city and a "reference" of world Islamic architecture, built under the Amazigh Almohad Dynasty (who also built Seville's Giralda minaret as a "sister" to the Koutoubia). Dinner awaits at the fashionable Bo&Zin bistro, in a garden setting.

March 16: Tuesday – Culinary Arts and Into the Souq (B,L)

In the morning we split up to head to different chefs' homes in the medina for hands-on culinary classes of Moroccan specialties, learning how to prepare a salad, main course, dessert and mint tea. Lunch is what we have concocted and we then penetrate the vast bazaars, Morocco's largest, to see a myriad of crafts still fashioned by hand. We wind our way to Le Jardin Secret, a green space hidden amid the maze of the souqs, part of a royal residence initially established in the 16th century, opened to the public for the first time in its history in 2016. Also a visit of the Ben Youssef Madrasa, a theological school that was the largest in Africa when initially built in the 14th Century, and the grandiose Dar al Basha palace of a city's overlord during French days, to see the museum within of interreligious currents as expressed in crafts and beliefs. We wind up at the famed Jemaa el Fna square, the vibrant heart of the old city, where the circus-like atmosphere — acrobats, musicians, snake charmers, story tellers, et al. — is at its highest then . Dinner is on your own, to enjoy Marrakech's great variety of world-class eateries.

March 17: Wednesday – Mt. Toubkal National Park (B,L)

We head South, following the scenic N'Fis Valley into the magnificent High Atlas mountains, the Continent's longest range, until Imlil village at the foot of 14,000-ft Mt. Toubkal, North Africa's highest. There we mount mules (each led by its handler) for a ride through terraced fields to Armed, Africa's highest permanent hamlet, observing the traditional ways of life and work of the Amazigh (Berber) tribesmen, Morocco's indigenous settlers. After a tea stop in a local home, we wind up for lunch at the award-winning Kasbah du Toubkal ecolodge. Late-afternoon return to Marrakech, with dinner again on your own.

March 18: Thursday – The Anima (B,L,R)

A morning excursion to the Anima, on everyone's list of "must-see" world gardens. A whimsical, magical world spread on over 7 acres, the creation of Austrian artist André Heller, with large works of modern art by renowned artists (including Picasso, Renoir and Calder) nestled amid lush vegetation. We move on to lunch at the exquisite Oberoi hotel, set amid a manicured garden designed by Madison Cox. The afternoon is open for personal pursuits in Marrakech: additional sightseeing, leisure activities, shopping, or just relaxing. A private dinner reception awaits at the garden home of an eminent architect, founder of the Marrakech Art Biennale

March 19: Friday — A Glass of Wine en Route to Fes (B,L,D)

An early departure on the limited-access autoroute North toward Casablanca, then East to the Kingdom's prime viniculture area. There we stop at one of top vineyards for a tasting of its prime crûs, followed by a private lunch and tour of the cave and vineyard. Continue East to spiritual capital Fes, whose medina is considered by scholars to be the last true example of a typical medieval Arab city. The remainder of the afternoon is at leisure, albeit those interested may proceed in the late afternoon to an atelier for ceramics and zellige (mosaic tile), a Fesi specialty since the 14th century. Dinner of refined Fesi cuisine at the hotel.

HOTEL: Accommodations will be in the medina in top riads, boutique hotels that have been converted from former mansions, renowned for their traditional architecture, unique character and personalized service. Three nights.

March 20: Saturday — Fes (B,L)

The day belongs to Fes. Founded by Idriss II, a direct descendant of the Prophet, and former capital of the 14th-century Amazigh Marinid Dynasty. Begin with a walking tour of 9th-century "Old" Fes, with its jewels of art spanning a millennium — pilgrimage shrines, intricately embellished theological schools, a caravansary, the world's oldest functional university, the Qarawyine — along with the famed leather tanneries and craft quarters where the arts are passed in ageless ways from master to disciple. Lunch during the walk at the Ruined Garden. In the afternoon we tour 8-centuries-old "New" Fes, with its Bou Inaniya theological school, to many the top masterpiece of Marinid architecture, the iconic "Blue" Gate, and the 19th-C. Jnane Sbil Royal Garden, a hidden gem of the medina.

March 21: Sunday — The Middle Atlas - Cedars, Monkeys and Cave Homes (B,L,D)

An excursion South into the Middle Atlas range. We cross mountain station Ifrane, site of the Continent's most prestigious university, the Al Akhawayne. From there reach the heart of the last forest of giant Mediterranean cedars, amid which we should spot a band of the indigenous Barbary macaques (of Gibraltar fame). Then across the Atlas to the hillside village of Bhalil, with its unique cave dwellings and painted houses. Early afternoon return to Fes, with free time.

March 22: Monday — Volubilis, Meknes and Rabat (B,L,D)

We head West to the ruins of Rome's regional commercial hub Volubilis, renowned for its numerous mosaics still in situ (World Heritage). Then South to Meknes, the 17th-Century capital of the current dynasty's founder Sultan Moulay Ismaïl, where we see the World Heritage immense granary he built to sustain the city's population and his thousands of horses for up to a year-long siege. Midday arrival in the stately capital of Rabat, a World Heritage city. After a seafood lunch we proceed on a leisurely walk through the picturesque Oudaya Kasbah, a former lair of Barbary Coast corsairs, with an Andalusian garden and the Oudaya Gate, another prime example of the purely Moroccan architectural style developed under the Almohad Dynasty. There we visit the National Museum of Jewelry and Adornment. A French dinner caps the day.

HOTEL: Villa Mandarine, Rabat's foremost boutique hotel, amid the diplomatic enclave, full of art and museum-quality crafts, heated pool, and one of the city's foremost cuisines. Three nights in Deluxe rooms with either a patio or balcony overlooking the hotel's exotic garden.

March 23: Tuesday — Bouknadel and Rabat (B,L)

In the morning we undertake an excursion a half-hour North of the city to the Jardins Exotiques of Bouknadel. These vast gardens, with 7 world themes (Andalusia, Peru, Congo, etc.), were created in the 1950s by a French resident and have been recently restored to their original beauty and as an educational center under the guidance of the King's youngest sister. After a lunch break at the hotel we explore the city's Botanical Gardens, established in 1917 and set on 42 acres, with over 600 hundred plant varieties.

March 24: Wednesday — Rabat (B,L,D)

The city tour continues with a walk through the Chellah fortress, its remains of the Roman colony of Sala and the stork-guarded necropolis of the 14th-century Marinid Dynasty amid lush vegetation. Next, the kingdom's prime archaeological museum and the Museum of Contemporary Moroccan Art, in a magnificent structure of neo-Moorish architecture. Lunch awaits at the Center for Cross Cultural Learning in the Rabat medina, with a presentation on Morocco as a crucial player in international affairs. A stop to see the ornate mausoleum of modern Morocco's "father" King Mohamed V, set on the grounds of what had been meant to be the world's largest mosque with the tallest minaret in the Almohad Dynasty period. The remainder of the day is free to relax, while a farewell dinner of Moroccan delights awaits at the Dinarjat in the Rabat medina.

March 25: Thursday — Outbound (B)

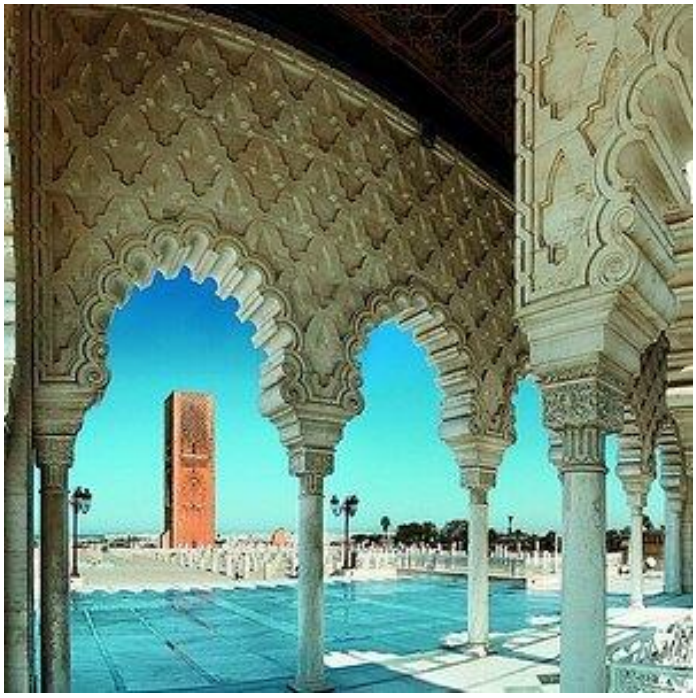
Transfers to Rabat or Casablanca airports in conjunction with outbound flights.



"Blue City" & Tangier Gardens Extension

You may wish to consider a 3-night post-program extension, first to Chefchaouen, considered Morocco' most picturesque town, with its cobblestone alleyways amid blue-washed buildings, set on a hillside of the Rif Mountains. Then on to famed Tangier, the former lair of spies and intrigue on the Strait of Gibraltar.

March 25: Thursday — To Chefchaouen (B,L)

An early morning departure on the 4½-hr transfer to Chefchaouen. Lunch upon arrival, followed by a guided tour of the old town's highlights, with the remainder of the day free for strolling around and photography. Enjoy dinner on your own at any of the numerous eateries within a 10-min walk from the hotel, or at the hotel.
HOTEL: Lina Ryad & Spa, the town's top, all-suite boutique hotel, located in the heart of the old city. 1 night.

March 26: Friday — Chefchaouen & to Tangier (B,D)

The morning is open for personal exploration and photography in the town. Lunch is again on your own to try the restaurants around the town's main square. Then a 2½-hr transfer West to Tangier. In the early evening we proceed to tour the garden of the Riad Mabrouka, the former home of Yves Sait-Laurent, now converted to a boutique hotel, where we stay for dinner.
HOTEL: El Minzah, the city's flagship hotel with a rich history, fashioned in the style of a parador. 2 nights in Deluxe rooms with view.

March 27: Saturday — Gardens (B,L,D)

A morning excursion an hour South of Tangier to Umberto Pasti's hilltop Rohuna Garden, which he built with the primary goal of preserving native flora, including rare narcissi that were at risk of extinction. After a lunch there, with produce from the garden, we turn back North to the Spartel Cape, below which the Mediterranean clashes with the Atlantic, to visit its public botanical garden and enjoy the splendid vistas on the Strait.
